

A Framework for Developing Your Podcasts

Variables	Options								A Description of Your Podcasting Example
Purpose	Extensions to Lectures	Assessment	Support Practical Work	Support Field Trips	Provide Additional Material	Enhance Collaborative Learning	Develop Active Learning	Develop Students' Study Skills
Convergence	Integrated with VLE				Stand Alone
Developer	Lecturers		Tutors		Students		Senior Students	Others (experts, local community, representatives)
Medium	Audio				Video
Reusability	Temperate (Immediacy, Alive)				Reusable
Structure	Single Session				Multiple Sessions
Length	Short (10 minutes or less)				Longer (10+)
Style	Formal (Lecture)				Informal (Conversation, Discussion)
Capacity	Large Student Cohorts				Small Groups of Students
Frequency	Daily		Weekly		Monthly		Regularly

20/03/2007 JISC Workshop on Innovative E-Learning with Mobile and Wireless Technologies

This document was prepared as part of the work of IMPALA project (www.impala.ac.uk), funded by the UK Higher Education Academy. The project team consists of teachers and researchers drawn from Universities of Leicester, Kingston, Gloucestershire, Nottingham and Royal Veterinary College London. More information about the project can be found on <http://www.impala.ac.uk/>

Acknowledgement: The framework is a further development of a model developed by Dr Nick Mount and Dr Clare Jarvis at the IMPALA project meeting and the workshop, 11 Jan 2007, University of Leicester.

20/03/2007 JISC Workshop on Innovative E-Learning with Mobile and Wireless Technologies

This document was prepared as part of the work of IMPALA project (www.impala.ac.uk), funded by the UK Higher Education Academy. The project team consists of teachers and researchers drawn from Universities of Leicester, Kingston, Gloucestershire, Nottingham and Royal Veterinary College London. More information about the project can be found on <http://www.impala.ac.uk/>

Acknowledgement: The framework is a further development of a model developed by Dr Nick Mount and Dr Clare Jarvis at the IMPALA project meeting and the workshop, 11 Jan 2007, University of Leicester.