Flying Start

AN INTRODUCTION TO STUDY AT UNIVERSITY OF HUDDERSFIELD
What is Flying Start?

Flying Start is a University of Huddersfield initiative that provides a welcoming, immersive and educational introduction to the first year at university and prepares you for your forthcoming studies.

Flying Start is an active and subject specific approach to induction and designed to encourage social and academic engagement between peers and staff, in order to build a supportive academic community.

Winner 2018: Social Justice Prize

The Guardian University Awards 2018
Winner: University of Huddersfield
Project: The Flying Start initiative
Research here at Huddersfield (and also Tinto, 1993; Thomas, 2012; Braxton et al, 2014; Dwyer, 2017) tells us that these approaches support student achievement by having positive effects on sense of belonging, engagement and self-confidence.
Aims:

- Stimulate excitement about the subject.
- Develop relationships with academics and peers to produce a sense of academic community.
- Support inclusion
- Encourage students to work with new people.
- Develop habits for full-time study
