

- It provides clear signposting for students if the content is structured clearly.
- Sections can be created to reflect the subject area, you may want to create different sections for different aspects of the module or course.
- Sections are useful to signpost weekly reading activities and grouping the content into clear sections.
- You can create a structure that reflects your teaching practice.
- You can create sections for different content types (Journals, Websites and Books)
- Allows students to find reading material they need with ease.